Kendal Oral History Group

The Kendal Oral History Group was formed in 1987 to record the life stories of local people who have spent all, or a significant part, of their lives in the Kendal area.

Their recollections of everyday life are helping to create a collective history and picture of life which compliments the official records of the time.

Often, it is the small, seemingly insignificant, details which will be the most revealing to future generations. Anyone with a clear memory of activities at home, school, work or play will be able to make a worthwhile contribution.

Interviewees are not identified by name unless they expressly consent to this. They are also not pressed to talk about anything they prefer to keep private. Most people enjoy being interviewed and appreciate being given a copy of their interview to share with their family.

The Archive is housed in Kendal Library where it is available for use by researchers or anyone with an interest in the area.

If you would like to know more about the project, if you would like to be interviewed yourself, or if you know of someone else who may like to be interviewed please complete the form overleaf or call into the Local Studies Department at Kendal Library.
